Telemedicine Informed Consent

I hereby consent to engaging in telemedicine as part of my psychotherapy. I understand that “telemedicine” includes the practice of health care delivery, diagnosis, consultation, treatment, transfer of medical data, and education using interactive audio, video, or data communications. I understand that telemedicine also involves the communication of my medical/mental information, both orally and visually, to health care practitioners located in California or outside of California.

I understand that I have the following rights with respect to telemedicine:

- (1) I have the right to withhold or withdraw consent at any time without affecting my right to future care or treatment nor risking the loss or withdrawal of any program benefits to which I would otherwise be entitled.
- (2) The laws that protect the confidentiality of my medical information also apply to telemedicine. As such, I understand that the information disclosed by me during the course of my therapy is generally confidential. However, there are both mandatory and permissive exceptions to confidentiality, including, but not limited to reporting child, elder, and dependent adult abuse; expressed threats of violence towards an ascertainable victim; and where I make my mental or emotional state an issue in a legal proceeding.

I also understand that the dissemination of any personally identifiable images or information from the telemedicine interaction to researchers or other entities shall not occur without my written consent.

- (3) I understand that there are risks and consequences from telemedicine, including, but not limited to, the possibility, despite reasonable efforts on the part of my psychotherapist, that: the transmission of my medical information could be disrupted or distorted by technical failures; the transmission of my medical information could be interrupted by unauthorized persons; and/or the electronic storage of my medical information could be accessed by unauthorized persons.

In addition, I understand that telemedicine based services and care may not be as complete as face-to-face services. I also understand that if my psychotherapist believes I would be better served by another form of psychotherapeutic services (e.g. face-to-face services) I will be referred to a psychotherapist who can provide such services in my area. I understand that there are potential risks and benefits associated with any form of psychotherapy, and that despite my efforts and the efforts of my psychotherapist, my condition may not improve, and in some cases may even get worse.

- (4) I understand that I may benefit from telemedicine, but that results cannot be guaranteed or assured.

- (5) I understand that I have a right to access my medical information and copies of medical records in accordance with California law.

Telemedicine Session Guidelines

- Phone and Vsee Sessions (telemedicine) sessions are run the same way as face-to-face sessions with your therapist.
- It is your responsibility to call your therapist at the designated appointment time. Your therapist will be waiting and ready for your call.
- You need to be in a secure, quiet, and private room at home or at work so that you are not interrupted during your session.
- You will need to make sure you have a good connection to avoid interruptions during your session.
- Cancellations and billing are handled the same as with face-to-face sessions.
- Some insurance companies do not cover telemedicine sessions. It is your responsibility to find out if your plan will cover these appointments.
- Please do not call from your car or public setting.
- Please do not use any other device while you are in your session.
 - turn off phones not being used for the session
 - turn off your computer/tablet

I have read and understand the information provided above. I have discussed it with my therapist and all of my questions have been answered to my satisfaction.
